Dear readers,

When the second "Composites Europe" opens its gates from 6 to 8 November in Stuttgart, we will present you the innovations in one of the major industries of the future. 200 exhibitors from 20 countries will give you an overview of the possible uses of fibre-reinforced plastics and the latest technologies. On the premises of Neue Messe Stuttgart, "Composites Europe" will be close to the market – in the heartland of the high-tech region Baden-Württemberg and right at the centre of one of the biggest user markets for this material.

Our thanks go to the European Composites Industry Association (EuCIA) and its national associations, notably to AVK. Its 10th International Conference which will be held at the fair serves to highlight the significance of "Composites Europe" as one of the most important and biggest platforms for this material.
