

JEC Composites Show 2008

The next JEC Composites Show will take place in Paris/France, Porte de Versailles, from April 1st to 3rd, 2008. This time manufacturing will be the central subject of the show which will feature all the current processes. The event will also present the full range of design tools and resources that contribute to the development of innovation in the composites sector, with a special attention paid to environmental improvements. More and more „Green“ exhibitors around bio-composites either have plant-polymer matrices or ones that are reinforced with natural fibres.

www.jeccomposites.com